Holiday Driving Safety

Tips to Keep You Safe

Some helpful ways to ensure that you and your loved ones celebrate and get home safely this holiday season is to pre-plan and to commit to making responsible driving decisions. Here are just a few tips for traveling safely this upcoming holiday season:

- If you have plans to attend a gathering or party be sure to designate a sober driver
- Consider a rideshare service to get yourself home safely
- Public transportation is another option to get to your destination safely - just be sure to check public transportation schedules beforehand as they may be limited during the holidays
- Never drive when you are sleepy or tired
- Always be mindful of driving conditions such as bad weather and heavy traffic
- If you see a drunk or impaired driver on the road, call local law enforcement

PRODUCTS LIABILITY

What Are the Hazards of Metal Casting?

Metal casting is one of the backbones of manufacturing in the U.S., providing jobs to nearly 490,000 workers. The parts produced by workers in metal casting foundries are found in all sorts of products, including automobiles, trains, trucks, medical devices, appliances, and toys. About 90 percent of the world's durable goods include component parts that were made using metal castings.

What Injured Workers Should Know About Products Liability?

Most employees who are injured on the job know that they can file for Workers' Compensation to cover their medical bills and a portion of their lost wages. While these benefits help, they do not pay for all lost wages, nor do they compensate for pain and suffering. Many workers are unaware that they may also be entitled to other sources of compensation.

Food Service Workers Face Machine-Related Dangers

The Bureau of Labor Statistics projects that employment in the food and beverage industry will grow by 17% from 2020-2030, which is faster than the average growth rate in all other industries. With more than one million positions available annually, the industry is undoubtedly a booming one. While many food and beverage sales positions come without previous experience or education requirements, workers face several significant job-related risks.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION

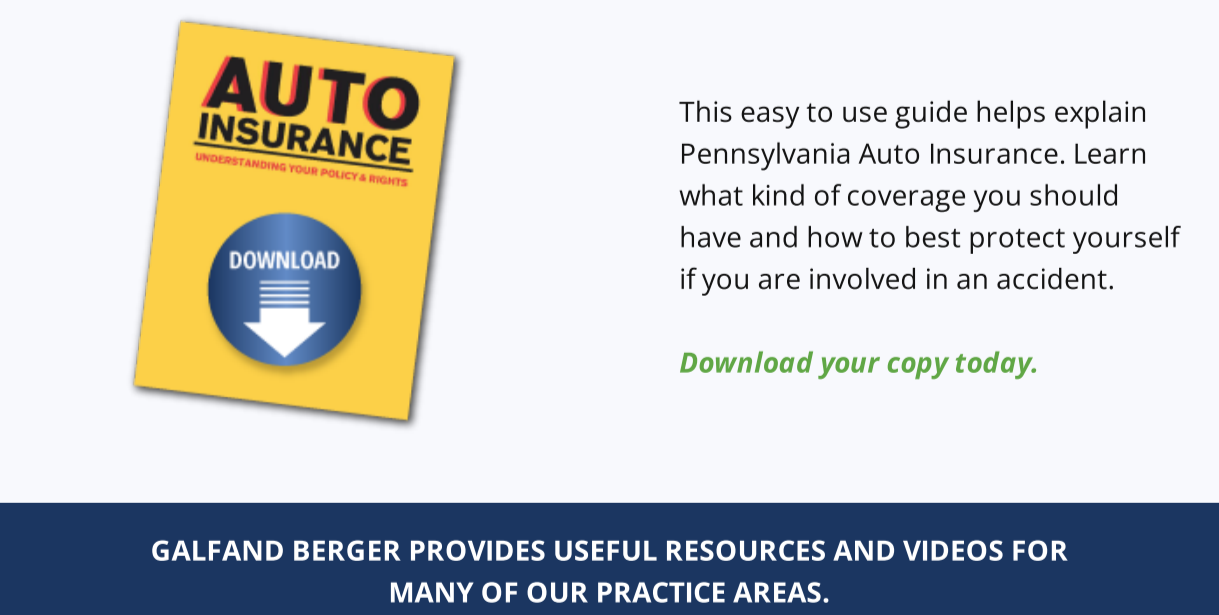

How Common Are Deadly Workplace Accidents in the United States?

Every year, there are nearly 3 million reported workplace accidents resulting in serious injuries, and more than 5,000 of these injuries are fatal, according to data from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The deadliest accidents are the result of explosions, fires, or toxic chemical exposure. In many cases, these incidents are the direct result of unsafe working conditions or defective machinery and equipment.

CAR ACCIDENTS

Change in Pennsylvania Law Expands Car Accident Victims' Rights

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court recently upheld a ruling invalidating the "regular use exception" to uninsured/underinsured motorist (UM/UIM) liability coverage. The Supreme Court's decision is a monumental win for car accident victims who sustain injuries when they are driving their work vehicles. In light of the Court's decision, insurance companies can no longer unjustly deny victims benefits that they are entitled to through their personal policies simply because their motor vehicle accident takes place in a work vehicle.

Can I Recover Damages for a Medical Condition Made Worse by a Car Accident?

If you are seriously injured in a car accident that is not your fault, you have the right to seek damages. However, insurance companies often try to deny or minimize the amount of money they will pay for a car accident claim. If you had a pre-existing medical condition that was made worse by your car accident, recovering damages for additional pain and suffering and extra medical treatment may be even more difficult. An experienced lawyer can help level the playing field by collecting evidence to build a strong case.
