Client Testimonial

The lawyers and staff at Galfand Berger were terrific in handling my negligence case. From the very beginning, they communicated clearly and provided excellent, timely updates throughout the process until settlement. I highly recommend the firm and my attorney, Michael Malvey.

Client Testimonial

If I say that Mr. Farhan Ali was relentless in advocating for me, you may think I am not serious, but I assure you I am. From the moment he took my case until it was resolved, Mr. Ali was conscientious, always keeping me updated on progress and providing sound arguments. At one point I wanted to give up, but he reminded me of my self-worth and encouraged me to keep going. I strongly endorse Galfand Berger LLP to anyone in need of advocacy and representation.

Understanding Legal Claims for Workplace Explosion Injuries

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), more than 200 workers are killed and over 5,000 injured in work-related fires and explosions every year in the United States. Fires and explosions often cause serious injuries and fatalities in the workplace. Explosions and fires make up a small percentage of workplace fatalities, according to data from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) and BLS, but often produce the most severe and life-altering injuries.

Back-to-School Safety

Children's Eye Health and Safety Month

Vision disorders often make it difficult for people to engage with the world around them. Vision problems not only make it difficult for school-aged children to interact with their surroundings, but they can also hinder their chances of achieving academic and social success. One of the primary goals behind Children's Eye Health and Safety Month, which the nation observes every August, is to teach parents and caregivers about the steps they can take to ensure that their children have the best chance for a healthy, happy, and successful school year by maintaining their vision.
