

Fall Travel Safety: What Pedestrians, Bicyclists and Drivers Need to Know

Fall is a beautiful time to travel. Cooler temperatures, changing leaves, football games, festivals, and weekend trips bring more people onto Pennsylvania's roads, sidewalks, bike paths, and highways. However, fall also brings unique hazards, from wet leaves and early sunsets to fog, frost, rain, and slippery roads.

Whether you are walking, riding a bicycle, or driving, taking a few extra precautions can help prevent a serious accident.

Olympus Endoscope Litigation: Did a Defective Medical Device Cause Your Infection?

Flexible endoscopes are used every day to diagnose and treat serious medical conditions. But lawsuits and regulatory investigations have raised troubling questions about whether some reusable endoscopes, including Olympus duodenoscopes and bronchoscopes, can be adequately disinfected between patients.

The concern is especially serious because these devices may transmit multidrug-resistant organisms (MDROs), potentially causing life-threatening infections.

Workers' Compensation vs. a Personal Injury Lawsuit: What Is the Difference?

If you are injured at work, you may assume that Workers' Compensation is your only option. But depending on how your injury happened and who was responsible, you may have the right to pursue both Workers' Compensation benefits and a personal injury lawsuit.

Understanding the difference between these types of claims, and knowing when a third party may be responsible, can make an important difference in your recovery.
